Precious Hubby!—

Well, dear, you sure did fool me Yesterday by enclosing Lippman's letter in yours. But never mind I paid you back, eh? when I enclosed the letter about your books. What, last, are you going to do about those books? Say + keep them — once they are shipped down South, she, we'll never be able to locate them.

Now, dear do you know what conclusion I have come to, about your stomach? Well it's just this, that you are not eating regularly, are you? See that you have your meals in regular time. Did I get you some Kutsark & Soda along in that kit? Well if I did why don't you use it? And Eat regularly on time

I will write you the big letter to-morrow. As yet have not rec'd my letter to day but suppose it will come later on, - due to your writing the letters in the evening. Am happy that you got a little satisfaction from the Coke-cola people, and do hope you get something big out of it.

You simply, dear, have no idea, honed am anxiously waiting for the time to pass, so that I can be with you. Of course, honey, I know you love me, — Even if it is only a tiny little stingy bit, but you do love me a little bit, eh? Just a little bit? I long so, and pine for a good tight hug & squeeze and a big kiss from you. I wish the time would roll around from me to start off. Well will be leaving Tuesday afternoon. Gosh how I envy her! She called me up this morning and told me the Girls of the Office presented her with a 43 piece set of cut glassware. This consists of a half dozen each of various glasses ranging from a wine glass up to sherry & Sherbert lemon-ade drinking tumblers etc. The odd piece is a salad dish. Besides this they gave her a 3# box of Page & Tarr chocolate

wasn't that simply wonderful of them?
They have been wonderfully nice to her, giving her so much time off for herself and not taking a cent out of her salary. Quite different from the way the city treats their employees, I can tell you. Expect they are going to advertise again ~~to~~ ~~[illegible]~~
for a man in my place and hope they get some one.

I shall close precious, with all
my love hugs & kisses.

Your overloving wifie,
Frances.

I hope I get a big fat letter to-day; —
I ought to.
